

FEEL AFTER HIM – Feb 1972

One of the methods we use to explore lectures deeply, to get a new understanding of them, so that our sessions are more effective, is to listen to a lecture, and while listening, write down questions, that he answers in the lecture.

These are not questions actually asked of Neville in the lesson, but questions that we could ask ourselves – or others to see if they actually heard what Neville said. This is a great way to focus your mind, to pay attention more deeply to any lecture that Neville presents.

Doing this exercise will rapidly expand your understanding of his principles, which will make your life more peaceful, and your sessions more effective. Enjoy
